Description

This stunning antique early 19th-century card table is a true testament to fine craftsmanship, crafted from exquisite rosewood. The table is supported by a beautifully carved pillar base, which extends into four elegantly designed feet, each fitted with casters for easy manoeuvrability. Its timeless design and intricate detailing make it a remarkable piece of the finest quality. The table boasts breathtaking grain patterns and a magnificent colour that highlight the natural beauty of the rosewood, exuding sophistication and charm. When opened, the table reveals a green velvet playing surface that remains in usable condition but could benefit from being replaced to restore its full glory. With its great condition and undeniable elegance, this card table is not only a functional piece for entertaining but also a collector's item that adds character and charm to any setting. A rare and exceptional find for antique enthusiasts or anyone looking to elevate their interior décor. Product Reference : AF - 3597
