Description

William Samuel Horton 1865-1936. Born in Grand Rapids, Michigan, United States. Horton was an American Impressionist painter who mostly painted landscapes and water scenes. He spent a large part of his life in Europe, mostly in France and England, where he trained and developed his impressionistic style with major impressionistic artists. He is considered by art critics, galleries, and museums to be one of the major members of American Impressionism, following on painters such as Mary Cassatt and J. M. W. Turner. 'Whitby by Moonlight' unsigned, oil on panel, artist's wax stamp verso and inscribed verso Whitby 1912, image size 41.5x54 cms, framed size 66x79 cms.
