Description

Antique twin-handled cobalt porcelain vase in the Dresden style. This exquisite antique porcelain vase, crafted in the Dresden style, features a deep cobalt blue background accented by ornate applied gilt patterns on the base, sides, and decorative handles. The central panel is beautifully hand-painted with a detailed floral motif, including roses and other blooms, showcasing the fine artistry typical of late 19th-century European porcelain. The applied gilding extends to the base and decorative scrollwork, adding a luxurious touch to this collectible piece. The vase embodies European Rococo influences and is a distinguished example of Dresden-style porcelain, renowned for its intricate decorative elements and brightly coloured hand-painted designs. Dimensions: Height: 17.5 cm Width: 11 cm Depth: 9 cm Weight: 394 grams Condition: Slight loss of gilding; otherwise, the vase is in excellent antique condition. There are no cracks, restorations, or breakages. All colours, enamel, and gold accents remain in superb condition.
