Description

Two large figurines, made under the Royal Capodimonte, Royal factory. Dating around the 1800s the king of Naples and Sicily took charge of the porcelain factories producing goods to match the quality of European manufacturers. These large figures are top class collectable porcelain. A huntsman with a musket, satchel and Pheasant, and the hunts lady accompanied by a gun dog with a grouse in it's mouth. Both pieces in perfect condition with only one minor break to the gentleman's gun. This has been reglued and is invisible.
