Description

A colourful antique Victorian glazed Majolica art pottery garden seat dating from circa 1895. Fabulously eye catching with bright vibrant colours, featuring gold and green floral reserves in leaf borders. In good condition, this super garden seat has a moulded top decorated with brown concentric circles on a gold ground. Similar to Bretby Art Pottery in style (not stamped). After the repeal of the glass tax in 1845, there was a proliferation of glasshouses in middle class Victorian families. Such structures allowed for the cultivation of exotic plants and extended growing seasons for fruits and vegetables. Garden seats such as this would have provided convenient seating for admiring the surroundings or while tending the plants. Construction: Glazed pottery Condition Report: Good condition with wear and marks commensurate with age. Small chip to top. Minor wear to underside of base. Dimensions: Height: 43cm Top Width: 28cm Top Depth: 28cm Base Width: 32cm Base Depth: 32cm
