Description

A Georgian oak tilt-top tripod table with a circular top made from a single piece of oak and a turned column base, c1760. The table has a rich deep colour and is in good condition throughout... A simple little table, but the top is - to me - a thing of beauty. A single plank of oak with a subtle texture from being cut/planed with an adze - this is especially obvious on the underside where it hasn't been smoothed off as much.
