Description

This Rustic French Harvest Serving Table has an abundance of charm as well as being extremely useful. Of simple, pleasant design so typical of vernacular furniture, and hence can be used in so many styles of décor. With a solid lower shelf, and slatted sides and middle shelf (To allow the produce to breathe) the table offers plenty of useful storage. In fact, as can be seen in one of the photos, bottles of wine sit very nicely on the middle shelf, so this piece would make a very stylish serving bar. The two drawers add further storage capacity, and the top is of a good usable size. This table has some historic repairs, which only adds to the appeal as it displays its history and use with pride, looking all the better for it! There are signs of historical woodworm but they have long gone and it has been treated again for peace of mind. To be expected of pieces like this, the table is made from a variety of woods, so typical of French rustic provincial furniture. It would look good wherever placed, kitchen, hall, dining room or lounge, it is just waiting for you to add to its rich history.
