Description

An elegant early 19th-century bureau bookcase featuring a distinguished architectural form. Its grand scale and impressive presence make it a beautiful statement piece for a principal library, a formal dining room, or a spacious country house hallway. The upper section is defined by its glazed doors that open to reveal generous shelving, sitting seamlessly above a traditional fall-front bureau mechanism. When lowered, the desk provides an expansive writing surface and opens to reveal an exceptionally fitted interior, complete with an arrangement of small drawers and neat pigeonholes that highlight the expert cabinet making of the period. The piece is in showroom condition. It is ready for immediate use in the home. Dimensions: * Height: 221 cm * Width: 109cm * Depth: 57cm

Internal Ref: 029
