

SA1120121

A Rare Victorian 19th Century Silver-Mounted Novelty Monkey Claret jug, London, 1893

Price

GBP 12,950

| USD $17,524 | EUR 15,153

Item Reference: SA1120121

Date of manufacture: Victorian

Dimensions

Height = 30 cm (11.8")

Description

Antique English Rare Victorian 19th century sterling silver-mounted glass monkey-form claret jug made by Richard Hodd & Son, London 1893. Yellow glass body. Clear glass tail-form handle. Sterling silver hind paws and shoulder mount with hinged and chained head. Buckled collar with German script and the name Lulu. Realistically modelled as a seated monkey with yellow glass body, the head hinging at the mouth. Engraved on the collar with the words from a German song: 'Ritt Gourmee, Lulu, Tapfer die ganze Nacht'. Gilt interior. Fully marked. Height 30cm approx

Provenance:- Property from a private collection, UK Provenance: Of the very few examples of this model known, none feature the yellow glass body of the present lot. A clear glass bodied example of 1882 by the same maker, was sold Sotheby's Belgravia, 15 December 1977, lot 369. Two clear glass bodied examples can also be found in the Kent Collection of claret jugs (numbers 616 & 712, the later of which was made in the same year). Of the very few examples of this model known, none feature a yellow glass body

Seller Details

Sandbanks Antiques

Sandbanks Poole Dorset United Kingdom By appointment only in Poole or London.

Tel: 07889 139677

International Tel: +44 7889 139677

