A 19th century Hall Centre Table with the finest Burr Walnut Veneers to the top which is Crossbanded with Tulipwood and then finished with a fabulous Coromandel wood cross grained moulded edge the base sweeps and also veneered with Burr Walnut and edged with Tulipwood finished with sunken brass castors. English Circa 1840 This type of table is associated to Edward Holmes Baldock who was a fashionable London art dealer, furniture maker and restorer of Hanway Street and probably the most distinguished dealer of his day. Edward Holmes Baldock (1777-1845) Born on the 14th May 1777 he established his business in 1805 in Hanway Street which over the years he expanded at this location. He soon was a prominent London furniture dealer to several members of the Royal Family and is responsible for supplying French-fashioned furniture to the 5th Duke of Buccleuch. Edwards Holmes Baldock's pieces have become a prized possession amongst collectors, museums (V&A included) and dealers alike.
