Description

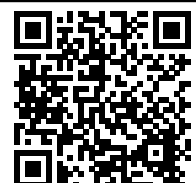

This is a fine quality antique Scottish Edwardian desk chair, constructed of solid oak, incorporating a revolving, reclining & height adjustable mechanism, with a newly upholstered green leather seat, circa 1910, in good working condition. The Edwardian desk chair is designed with a curved bar back, supported by lower fan back supports. The back secures to shaped arms on elegant vertical shaped supports. The back and arms connect to the seat, which has been newly upholstered, to a professional standard, in top quality full grain green leather. The underside of the seat has been re-webbed in the traditional manner. On the back of the set is part of either the manufacturers or retailers' label, which makes reference to 91-93 Hanover Street, Edinburgh. The Edwardian desk chair sits on four splayed oak legs that terminate on the original steel castors, which are in good condition. The desk chair incorporates a restored Hillcrest mechanism allowing it to smoothly rotate 360 degrees and recline backwards. The seat height can be adjusted by revolving the chair, while the tension of the reclining action can be adjusted by turning the small wheel on the front of the mechanism...
