Description

A Regency mahogany side table of elegant proportions, the rectangular top with plain edge and overhang to the back strung with boxwood and with extruded round corners, over a wide central drawer over a recessed compartment and flanked by two shorter drawers, each with cockbeaded edges and original brass knobs, and with full length turned and reeded supports tapering slightly to brass castors. English, circa 1815. Condition: Overall very good, the table is in very good condition and stands well with no marks or scratches, the drawers all run smoothly and the brasses are original, overall the piece has very elegant proportions and a very pleasing colour and patina.
