Description

Type of artwork: F Schumacher & Co New York Custom Hand Print Wallpaper Design Surface: Paper Artist and signature: 'Monticello' for Schumachers Wallpaper Line Research of the Design Mythological Griffin/Lion Hybrid: The creature depicted has the body of a lion and wings, resembling a griffin, a symbol of strength, wisdom, and protection. The stylized mane and wings suggest an Art Deco or Neoclassical influence, often seen in architectural motifs from the 18th to early 20th century. Greek Key Pattern (Meander Design): The geometric railing below the creature is a Greek key (meander) pattern, which is an ancient symbol of infinity and unity. This pattern is often found in Greek and Roman architecture and was later revived in Federalist and Art Deco design. Possible Inspirations & Historical Connection This could be part of a Schumacher neoclassical wallpaper collection, inspired by Greek, Roman, or Art Deco aesthetics. It might be linked to Federalist-style interiors, where griffins and classical motifs were used in wallpapers, textiles, and furnishings. The red-and-gold color scheme was common in high-end interior designs from the 19th and early 20th centu...
