Description

William Lambert Bell 1904 Mevagissey Harbour Cornwall "W Lambert Bell" oil on canvas 39 x 49 cm. Mevagissey is a village, fishing port and civil parish in Cornwall, England, United Kingdom. The village is approximately five miles (8 km) south of St Austell. The parish population at the 2011 census was 2,015, whereas the ward population at the same census was 4,354. The village nestles in a small valley and faces east to Mevagissey Bay. The inner and outer harbours are busy with a mixture of pleasure vessels and working fishing boats. It has a thriving fishing industry and is the second-biggest fishing port in Cornwall. Mevagissey village centre consists of narrow streets with many places to eat and shops aimed at the tourist trade. The outer areas are built on the steep slopes of the surrounding hillsides and are mostly residential. St Peter's Church, Mevagissey Former Mevagissey Methodist Chapel The first recorded mention of Mevagissey dates from 1313 (when it was known as Porthilly), although there is evidence of settlement dating back to the Bronze Age. The old name of the parish was Lamorrnick, and it was part of the episcopal manor of Tregear. The church w...
