Description

This charming antique mahogany wall shelf, likely dating from the 1910s, combines practical storage with elegant design. The piece features a top display shelf supported by intricately carved barley twist columns, a hallmark of early 20th-century craftsmanship. Below the shelf are four drawers, each fitted glass pulls, likely replacements for the original hardware. The warm tones of the mahogany wood highlight its rich grain, while the combination of open shelving and drawer storage makes it a versatile addition to any space. Ideal for use as a display shelf, spice rack, or decorative organiser.
