Description

An early 19th-century Regency giltwood overmantel mirror with an architectural frame. The crest features a foliate frieze with rope-twist detailing flanking a central shell motif within a laurel wreath. The fluted columns are decorated with acanthus capitals and terminate in carved lotus feet. The three-section mirrored glass is framed with ebonised inner borders, contrasting against the gilded frame. A refined example of Regency craftsmanship, designed to add depth and light to an interior.
