Description

EXTREMELY RARE AND IN MINT CONDITION This is rare opportunity indeed to purchase a matched pair of Royal Bayreuth candle holders in the form of foxes dressed in traditional English hunting attire. Royal Bayreuth is a famous manufacturer of porcelain since 1794 and originally based at Tettau in the midst of the Thuringia Forest in Bavaria, Germany. They were renowned not only for the superior quality of their porcelain but also for the fabulous range of models and designs. Each piece is unique as they are hand painted and the vibrant colours used especially on the fruit, vegetables and animals is quite incredible. This pair of candle holders is probably the rarest and most sought after of all Royal Bayreuth pieces, they are a matched pair with the fox and vixen facing in opposite directions and of course the colouring or markings are different and one is fractionally taller than the other which is the case if you study foxes in the wild. The expressions on their faces and the way the eyes are turning is quite enchanting and the colour of the hunting jacket bold and vibrant. As you would expect both are fully marked on the base with 'Registration applied for RD No 72...
