Description

A very interesting and unusual bronzed plaster portrait relief. The work has been sculpted and cast in plaster which has then been painted with a bronzed finish. The quality of the modelling is superb and typical of sculpture of the early twentieth century and I think might be a self-portrait. The relief retains the original label on the reverse giving the artist as Miss E.V.Black, sadly I can find no record of this artist, it may be she married and changed her name. The plaster relief is in good untouched condition and framed in the original oak frame which interestingly has also been given the bronzed effect. The whole is wonderful decorative and very mysterious. C.1900. Overall sizes in inches including frame: 11 ¼ by 13 ¼
