Description

A good example of an oak tabletop cabinet dating from the early 20th century. It has a glazed door, with its original working lock and key, opening to three drawers with brass art nouveau style handles. There are matching carrying handles on the sides of the cabinets. It is in good condition for its age. The wood has developed a lovely patina and the interior is clean and tidy. There are a few small knocks and marks around the outside, general signs of age and use and a small shrinkage split in the back but nothing detrimental and it displays well. It has been lightly cleaned and polished and is ready for use. The best description comes from the photos so please look at them all carefully and if you have any questions just ask.
