Description

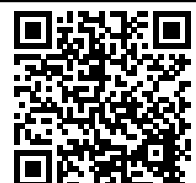

A stunning 18th century Louis XV giltwood mirror, c.1750. The crest is adorned with vines and leaves surrounding a central basket filled with flowers, above an original mirror plate surround by a boldly carved foliate border. The original mirror plate is heavily and attractively foxed and now barely reflects, giving that sought after 'portal' like quality. There is a historic loss and repair to the top left flower to the crest. Overall the whole piece remains in a very good condition indeed. An outstanding example.
