Description

Pretty little Victorian wheel-shaped gold earrings, each suspending a dangling orb at the centre. • Condition: One earring is in very good antique condition, the other has some denting to the front and a patch of solder on the reverse, see photos, although this doesn't detract from their look in the ear. • Fixing: Ear wires, supplied with tiny silicone "keepers" for additional security. • Stamps/hallmarks: Both earrings are stamped 9CT and have a British Design Registry kitemark on the reverse. • Era: Victorian (c.1837-1901). • Size: Approx 3.2cm drop x 1.8cm. The "wheel" section is approx 2cm high. • Weight: 3.2g; the earrings are hollow and so lovely and light to wear.
