Description

A truly stunning oval clock on a base/stand with impressive lion paw feet. The engraved case is in superb condition with a fine gilt finish, and the original glass near perfect. The clock is not attached to the base and can be lifted separately using the carry handle, also engraved and delicately shaped. The movement has been fully overhauled and runs perfectly, with alarm function and push repeat button to the top, to strike the last hour. Although unsigned it is numbered and probably from Richard & Co., circa 1880-1890. It is worth noting that oval carriage clocks are not rare, but finding one with a stand such as this does make it quite unique and enhances the clock.
