Description

A fine quality and rare pair of King George V cast silver Menu Holders formed as Mr Punch, his wife Judy, on plain circular bases. Made By Horace Woodward & Co, London, 1910 - 1911. These exceptional cast sterling silver menu holders have been realistically modelled in the form of the classic 17th century puppet characters Punch and Judy. Each cast silver figure is embellished with details reproducing the characters period attire and anatomical features. The Judy character is holding their baby in her arms. These exceptional examples of antique silver are fitted with plain circular supports to the posterior surfaces. Each character surmounts a plain hallmarked circular plateaued base. * Mr Pulcinella Punch and his wife Judy re-enact comical classic tales incorporating a wide range of 'guest' characters; many of these characters fall victim to the violent nature of Mr Punch's club. The enacted story typically involves Punch behaving foolishly, struggling with his wife Judy and the baby, all triumphant over the law whilst incorporating classic jokes and songs.
