Description

Georgian inlaid bedside chest. This Georgian inlaid bedside chest was made circa 1820. Originally a tray top commode it has been adapted to a bedside chest fitted with 4 graduated drawers. It has the striking inlays around the drawer fronts that border the satinwood to the centre. It is fitted with the fine cast gilt brass swing handles. The bow and bell flower inlay runs down each side, this compliments the overall look to the eye. The tray top with the cut out handles has a central shell motif, using the Sheraton influence that was prominent at the time. This attractive bedside chest could also be used as a lamp table in other places around your home. 50cms wide 20ins 43cms deep 17ins 77cms high 30ins Measurements are as accurate as possible Delivery UK mainland FREE Other destinations please contact us, and we will get a quote.
