Description

Small Georgian mahogany bow chest This Small Georgian mahogany bow chest was made circa 1810. This George III mahogany chest has the brushing slide, that pulls out by using the decorative brass pulls. Brushing slides were originally for the gentlemen's valet to brush his trousers before use, this is a charming look back into social history, imagine the valet preparing the gentleman's cloths for the day ahead. The bow fronted chest has embossed brass handles with swing handles fitted to the 3 graduated drawers. It stands on the French splay feet, a most elegant look. Antique chests of drawers of small size are rare and desirable. This lovely example can be used in many places around a modern home, in bedroom settings or in informal drawing room or downstairs settings. 83cms wide 32 1/2ins 53.5cms deep 21ins 86.5cms high 34ins Measurements are as accurate as possible Delivery UK mainland FREE Other destinations please contact us, and we will get a quote.
