Description

This Victorian mahogany armchair, circa 1860, is a superb example of the craftsmanship and elegance characteristic of the period. The armchair features a beautifully upholstered button-back design that exudes both comfort and sophistication. The rich mahogany frame showcases intricate scrolling side rails and arms, meticulously carved to end in striking lion's head motifs. These decorative elements not only enhance the chair's aesthetic appeal but also reflect the opulent tastes of the Victorian era. The chair's structure is supported by turned front legs, which add a touch of refinement to its overall design. The inclusion of brass castors with china wheels ensures that the chair remains functional and easy to move, without compromising on its period-appropriate charm. The combination of materials used in this piece — mahogany, brass, and china — demonstrates the high-quality standards and attention to detail that were prevalent in Victorian furniture-making. Comfort is not sacrificed for style in this armchair; its upholstered seat and backrest provide a plush and inviting seating experience. The chair's proportions and ergonomic design make it an ideal piece for both...
