Description

Rare, late 18th Century Sinceny of Rouen porcelain beaker. Decorated in the Japanese taste and gilded metal rims to top and base with lion mask handles. Initials S.C.Y. verso. In very good condition. The Sinceny manufactory (sometimes St. Cenis) was a French producer of ceramics, especially faience, located in the village of Sinceny, Picardy, in northern France. The Sinceny manufactory was founded in 1713, when potters from Rouen and before from Nevers, moved there to establish their own venture. As a consequence, Sinceny ware copied Rouen ceramics to the point of being sometimes indistinguishable from it.
