Description

A rare pair of Barr, Flight and Barr Worcester chamber candlesticks, circa 1810. Of boat shape with scrolling gilt strap handles, the nozzles raised on gilded gadrooned stems, the salmon-pink ground exteriors moulded with horizontal bands simulating planks, finely painted with wide borders of colourful flowers against black grounds to the interior rims, the centres and nozzles gilt with caillouté, a formal border of gilded scrollwork below the nozzle rims, 16cm long, printed marks referring to Coventry St address. One illustrated by Charles Dawson, Worcester Flight & Barr Porcelain (2023), p.153, fig.15.6. The boat-like form of these chambersticks is most unusual and would appear to be unique. Condition: Both with restoration to the base of each scone and where it joins the handle. Restoration to the scone of one and restored chip to the rim of the other.
