Description

Antique candelabra 19th century circa 1815 of exceptional quality and in excellent honest condition being made of bronze metal gilt metal slate and being probably the most impressive pair of antique candelabra we've seen for quite a while. This pair of French Empire Candelabra Circa 1815 of gilt and patinated bronze with figural Grecian figures blowing trumpets and terminating in candle holders measures 61cm high. These are considered fairly large, but not too large for displays or to be placed on dining tables as well as on hall tables etc. In our opinion these antique 19th century french empire candelabra are extremely attractive with beauty and elegance encapsulated at the same time. It's not often pairs of elegant antique bronze ormolu slate and gilt metal metal candelabra of this quality in such honest and original condition come to the open market. These pair of 19th century candlesticks are very impressive and a pair of antique bronze candlesticks also of ormolu gilt metal and bronze of this fairly large size and quality are very difficult to find. A pair of 19th century french empire bronze candelabra are to cherish and adore. This fine pair of antique 19...
