Description

Early 20th century English fairground carousel central fragment. A hand carved example of a vibrant and highly decorative fairground carousel central mirror panel. With its original mirror still in place, with typical naïve hand-crafted wooden sections. Layered paint and with its original hanging hook still in place at the reverse. An un-touched example with natural age wear and loss as shown. It would look wonderful in a cool hallway entrance in our humble opinion. Size in inches: H 47" x W 18" x D 4" Origin: England Date: Early 20th Century Condition: Aged This item is naturally aged with surface wear and loss. As it's made from hand carved sections of pine some of the detail has broken including certain edge detail as we have tried to show in the photos provided. About 10% of the paint has flaked off but the remainder is firmly in place. An untouched original example that has stood the test of time. Please review all the photos provided as part of this advert, close-up photos have been provided to show its condition of loss of surface detail and paper in more detail. We strongly suggest reviewing all the photos provided as part of this advert and propose que...
