Description

George Turner British, (1843-1910) Near Tonge, Leicestershire Oil on canvas, signed Image size: 15.25 inches x 23.25 inches Size including frame: 22.75 inches x 30.75 inches A charming landscape painting of a shepherd and flock resting in a country lane at Tonge, Leicestershire by George Turner. A flock of sheep are depicted taking rest in a lane under the shade of a tree. In the foreground, a shepherd and his dog can be seen keeping a watchful eye as they relax in front of a gate. Tonge, is a village located in North Leicestershire, close to the Derbyshire border. At the time of this painting, Turner was living in Barrow-on-Trent, which is only around 7 miles from Tonge and would have been relatively easy to get to. George Turner was a landscape painter born in Cromford, Derbyshire around 1843 to Thomas and Mary Turner. His father was a tailor and encouraged his son's natural talent for art. Although largely self-taught, he was able to set himself up as a professional artist by the age of 20. He also turned his hand to private art teaching as a young man. After moving to Barrow-on-Trent he met and married his first wife Eliza Lakin in 1865. They lived at her famil...
