Description

A lovely example of a brass railway Pullman coach lamp dating from the early 20th century. It has a hole in one foot where it would have been fixed in place. It has been PAT tested and rewired to modern standards with a braided cord and a standard switched bayonet bulb holder. The lamp is in good condition and displays well. The metal has tarnished a little over time and there are some signs of age and use but nothing detrimental. The best description comes from the photos so please look at them all carefully and if you have any questions just ask.
