Description

A good quality mahogany chiffonier dating from the early 19th Century. It has a cupboard base and the door panels are lined with a pleated material. It has a shelved interior with two adjustable shelves and they are edged in their original tooled red leather trim. The top has three graduated shelves with turned supports, a small raised gallery and a panelled back. It is in good condition and is strong and sturdy. The original polish has worn a little in places on the doors but the whole piece has been gently waxed and it has a lovely patina. There have been a couple of old repairs and there are of course some signs of age and use but no major damages and it displays well. The best description comes from the photos so please look at them all carefully and if you have any questions just ask. Nationwide delivery available through our network of reliable couriers.
