Description

A fine example of mid-18th century craftsmanship, this George II chest of drawers boasts a beautifully figured walnut veneer with striking tulipwood banding, offering a subtle contrast and refined decorative detail. The piece features an attractive and practical layout, with two short drawers over three graduated long drawers, all period-style brass handles. Set on wooden bun feet and displaying a warm, rich patina developed over centuries, this chest exemplifies the quality and elegance typical of the George II period. The drawers run smoothly and offer ample storage, while the proportions make it suitable for both bedroom and living spaces. A timeless piece for collectors and interior designers alike, combining functionality with classic Georgian charm. Condition: Minor wear consistent with age, some good old repairs accordingly. Materials: Walnut, tulipwood and brass Age: George II Dimensions: H:83.5cm W: 95cm D: 52cm
