Where to begin! What an armchair! This piece is super rare, I have only ever seen one other example in fabric, this piece is finished in early cattle hide leather upholstery which has been hand dyed from new. The chair sits as a normal library armchair, then the fun begins, you can manually recline the back in one of around 8 sitting positions, the arms disconnected and slide down meaning you can exit the chair from either side, at the front under the seat base pulls out a height and angle adjustable footrest, lastly the seat is height adjustable at the front. This chair can lay totally flat and be used as a bed. Condition wise, the piece was sent to my cabinet maker and French polisher to have the mechanism fully restore...
