Description

A pair of Royal Doulton Art Nouveau design vases c1880. These cylindrical vases display an Art Nouveau theme of naturalistic trailing roses and leaves. The roses and leaves are glazed in a soft pinks and greens, with off white tube lining to give a deeper three dimensional effect. The roses and foliage are set against a mottled background of blues and mauves, with the colour deepening towards the bases, for a more impactful effect. A typical Art Nouveau sinuous border runs around the neck of the vases. The bases are stamped for Royal Doulton and bear two potters' marks, LB for LF Bowen and a separate R probably for Frank W Reader. So it is likely that two artists were involved with the creation of the vases. Excellent condition. No damage at all and beautiful colours and glaze.
