Description

A good example of a beautiful leather Gladstone style bag dating from the early 20th century. The outer of the case is clad in a textured black leather with a carrying handle. Below this is a central brass lock and two locking catches at either end which, when both released, allow the middle catch to open. The bag opens out to reveal an interior lined in a pale grey leather maroon leather with a couple of side pockets. The bag is in good condition for its age and displays well. The exterior is in very good order with no major signs of wear and a lovely rich patina. The interior however has suffered some damages to seams and stitching and there are some small holes and marks. The bag does not come with a key but this doesn't stop it being fully closed and the handle being able to be used. The best description comes from the photos so please look at them all carefully and if you have any questions just ask. Tracked UK Delivery £10
