Description

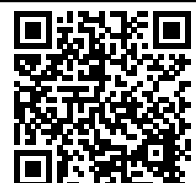

A fine early 20th-century black leather jewellery box crafted by the esteemed Parkins & Gotto of Oxford Street, London, circa 1920. This elegant box features a sleek exterior clad in smooth black leather, subtly worn with age, lending it a timeless character. The lid opens to reveal a beautifully preserved interior, complete with its original fitted jewellery tray—designed to securely hold rings, brooches, and other treasured pieces. Parkins & Gotto, renowned for their high-quality stationery and luxury leather goods, were a prominent name in London during the late 19th and early 20th centuries. This piece bears all the hallmarks of their craftsmanship, combining utility with understated sophistication. An exceptional collector's item or a charming addition to a vintage dressing table.
