Description

Pair of 19th Century Openwork Silver Vases by Josiah Williams & Co with Glass This pair of 19th-century silver openwork vases by Josiah Williams & Co. is a wonderful representation of Victorian craftsmanship. Created by renowned silversmiths George Maudsley Jackson and David Landsborough Fullerton, these vases exemplify intricate design and superior quality. The vases feature a delicate openwork silver design, allowing light to play through the patterns and creating a striking visual effect. This filigree technique not only enhances their aesthetic appeal but also demonstrates the high level of skill involved in their creation. Each vase includes a clear glass insert, providing a practical and elegant solution for holding flowers or other decorative items without compromising the integrity of the silver. Measuring 19 cm in height and 10 cm in diameter, these vases are the perfect size to display on a mantelpiece, sideboard, or as a centerpiece. The combination of silver and clear glass allows these vases to complement a variety of decor styles, from traditional to contemporary. These vases are perfect for antique silver collectors or anyone looking to add a touch of el...
