Description

This pair of silver candlesticks, manufactured by Thomas Bradbury & Sons Ltd in 1918, exemplifies the elegance and craftsmanship of early 20th-century silverware. Created in Sheffield, a city renowned for its silver production, these candlesticks demonstrate the high quality and craftsmanship associated with this era. The candlesticks are hallmarked, guaranteeing their authenticity and providing valuable information about their origin and date. Measuring 23.5 cm in height with a base diameter of 11 cm, reducing to 5.5 cm, these candlesticks have a classic and balanced design that would complement a variety of interior styles. With a combined weight of 1135 grams, the candlesticks are substantial, offering stability and a luxurious feel. The weight and craftsmanship suggest they are either solid silver or have a weighted base, which was common for candlesticks of this era to ensure stability. These candlesticks would make a sophisticated addition to any dining table or mantelpiece, offering a touch of timeless elegance. Their historical significance and refined design make them ideal for collectors of antique silver or those looking to add a touch of classic style to th...
