Description

This magnificent Victorian wicker basket, made by Edward H. Stockwell in 1874, is a superb example of 19th-century silver craftsmanship. Crafted from solid silver, this intricately designed basket showcases the attention to detail and craftsmanship characteristic of the Victorian era. The basket features a detailed wickerwork pattern, expertly crafted to mimic the texture and appearance of real wicker. This intricate design is complemented by twisted, vine-like handles, adding an organic and natural element to the piece. These handles not only enhance the aesthetic appeal but also provide a convenient grip for handling the basket. Measuring 8.5 x 7.5 x 4.2 cm, the basket is compact yet commanding, making it a versatile decorative piece that can be displayed on a mantelpiece, sideboard, or in a display cabinet. Weighing 102.5 grams, it has a solid feel that underlines its quality and the sterling silver it is made from. This piece is perfect for collectors of Victorian silver or those who appreciate antique decorative arts. It serves as both a functional object and a magnificent work of art, reflecting the elegance and craftsmanship of the period. Whether used to hold s...
