Description

Technical Description A truly superb pair of 19th century green wine glasses. They have ribbed ogee bowls above large shoulder blade and ball knob stems. Conical feet with polished pontils. Made by Richardson and Sons in different colours and are now very difficult to find. Date & Origin England, c1840. Period of Victoria. Condition Excellent, age-related wear as shown. Dimensions Height: 11.2cm Bowl diameter: 6cm Foot diameter: 6.2cm Comments The ribbed design can be seen in a number of different Richardson designs from this period as well as finger bowls and serving bottles, however, wine glasses in this form and are exceptionally rare and outside a set we sold a few years back we were unable to find any documented examples in our library or online. We have three different examples from the same collection, in three different colours of various sizes.
