Description

Antique and rare Wedgwood white stoneware teapot, circa 1820, showcasing remarkable early 19th-century English craftsmanship. The hexagonal body features finely moulded relief decoration, combining delicate leaves, flower heads, and distinctive diamond-shaped panels with grotesque masks. The cover, topped by an elegant floral bud finial, complements the overall sophisticated design. The base is clearly impressed with "Wedgwood," a craftsman's mark "Y," and the number "153," verifying authenticity and historical provenance under Josiah Wedgwood II's leadership. Dimensions: Width: 21 cm (handle to spout) | Depth: 16 cm | Weight: 580 g Condition: Minor hairline cracks visible inside (see photo), otherwise excellent. Please study the accompanying photographs carefully as they form an integral part of this description. If you have any questions, we will be happy to answer them. The item will be shipped with full tracking and insurance. It is important to note that shipping costs include labour, packaging and postage.
