Description

An elegant oak long case clock by John Tickell, of Kingsbridge. The oak case of excellent colour and condition, with a pagoda top to the hood. The pretty and well painted 12" break arch dial with decorative urns in the corners and roses in the arch, having a calendar aperture and subsidiary seconds dial. It has an eight day movement and strikes the hours. John Tickell was the son of John Tickell of Crediton, a well known clockmaker, and he seems to have moved to South Devon, to set upon his own in the late eighteenth century Height 85" c. 1785
