Description

We are delighted to offer this enchanting antique Victorian twin heart peridot brooch made c.1900. The brooch most wonderfully made in 9ct gold in the form of an arrow piercing two hearts. The central section presents two heart-shaped faceted peridots with a surrounding border of seed pearls, all intricately set and complemented with further embellishing on the top bow. Distinctly Victorian and displaying all the signs of fine antique jewellery goldsmithing, this brooch is meticulously made. Each claw, mount and finely shaped setting are impressively fine and intricate; a testament to the goldsmith's skill and craftsmanship of the period. On the reverse side, a C-clasp pin is present: this brooch would most certainly grace a jumper/jacket in the colder seasons and a blouse in the warmer months. Overall, a superb and exemplary piece of romantic and endearing Victorian jewellery, whether as a gift for someone special or for a personal collection, this is one of those pieces bound to be a conversation starter and a delightful way to express your passion for fine antiques, design and jewellery. The brooch is marked 9ct on the reverse side in between the two gold heart mo...
