Description

Nice quality pair of mid 19th century Scottish mahogany hall chairs. Made from the best of timber with lovely grain. The chairs have typical Scottish turned and octagonal front legs with gorgeous carved backs. The chairs are in very good condition and are both perfectly sound. Both have an old hairline crack to the seats but are otherwise perfect. It is unusual for these to be so good on the back joint as they are normally broken or have been repaired where the back joins the seat. They have their original finish with good patination. SIZE; 16" across the front by 14" deep by 33" high CIRCA; 1840 - 1850
