Description

This fine quality Victorian hall stand which dates from the 19th century is well made of oak, has brass finials and fittings, a removable lower drip tray and has a wonderful rich patina. This handsome wooden stick/umbrella stand which is attributed to James Shoolbred & Co has a diamond registration kite mark to the reverse which dates from 1882. There is no maker's mark to this stand but this stand is of very nice quality and is a recognised design by James Shoolbred & Co. Their furniture was displayed in a series of catalogues that the company produced every year with their new designs and by the mid 1880s their furniture was of the best quality available. A highly decorative antique piece of arts and crafts furniture that would make a great addition to your home furnishings. Size: Width: 56.5 cm (22 1/4"). Depth: 24 cm (9 1/2"). Height: 112 cm (44") approx. Weight: 11 Kg. Condition: Excellent used antique condition with some age related wear and signs of use in keeping with age. Some small chips, bruises and general wear. Please see pictures. Please note that only the hall stand is included and any other items in the pictures are for display only. For more info...
