Description

A pair of Regency / William IV period, mahogany chairs, circa 1830. This pair features attractively figured timbers with curved top rails, over a carved slat. Upholstered seats, covered in a quality woven damask fabric in pale blue green and cream. Raised on ring turned front legs, with curved rear legs. An attractive and quality pair of chairs, in a good condition, recently re-upholstered. Very well presented and ready for use. Dimensions: These chairs measure approximately 85 cm (33.5") tall, 45 cm (17.75") wide, and 50.5 cm (21.25") deep. The seat height is approximately 47.5 cm (18.75"). Condition: Please see the pictures for details of the items condition. - These chairs are in a good condition commensurate with their age, and are structurally very sound and sturdy. There are some minor marks, blemishes and signs of age related wear on the frames. No loose joints. A few small repairs, now all well polished in. Recently and sympathetically re-upholstered. These chairs have been through the workshop and have been carefully serviced, sensitively cleaned and waxed and are now very much ready to be used. As with all vintage & antique furniture there will be signs ...
