Description

Victorian Mahogany Serpentine Front Console Table with Marble Top This stunning Victorian mahogany console table features an elegant serpentine front, a dome-shaped gallery back, and a striking grey marble top, all resting on substantial turned legs. A truly solid, sturdy, and heavy piece of antique furniture, it has not only withstood the test of time but will continue to stand the test of future generations. The table boasts a beautiful patina, a result of age and use, which adds to its timeless appeal. While there are some superficial cosmetic marks and light scratches to the marble, these minor imperfections do not detract from the piece's overall charm and elegance. Additionally, there are signs of historic woodworm, which is inactive and has been fully treated. This versatile table will blend seamlessly with most décor styles and surroundings, though please note the dimensions, as it is a substantial piece of furniture that makes a bold statement.
