Description

Add a touch of timeless elegance to your collection with this stunning late Victorian decorative jewellery box, crafted circa 1880-1900. A fine example of period craftsmanship, this box features intricate marquetry and parquetry inlay work made from a harmonious combination of woods, creating a visually striking and richly detailed design. The top showcases a symmetrical floral motif with ornate scrollwork, framed by a delicate banded edge. This piece remains in all-original condition, including the beautifully preserved interior, complete with a full lift-out jewellery tray – perfect for organizing rings, brooches, and other cherished keepsakes. The box also retains its original working lock and key, providing both functionality and authenticity. Materials: Various woods including tulip, mahogany, satinwood and sycamore. Age: c.1900 Size: Length: 23cm Width: 17cm Height: 7cm
